CRACK SIBERIAN TROOPS REINFORCE A "PEOPLE'S ARMY"

The Defenders of Stalingrad Launch a Major Counter-Offensive

ORDERS AN ATTACK

Have High Hopes That The Onslaught Against City Will Be Broken

(By International News Service)

MOSCOW, Sept. 18.—Reinforced by crack Siberian troops and a "people's army" which manned the city's blood-soaked ramparts, the defenders of Stalingrad launched a major counter-offensive on orders from Premier Joseph Stalin and the Soviet high command today.

The eleventh-hour attack was ordered after long and careful preparation. High hopes were held out that under its impetus the almost month-long German onslaught against the city would be broken and the Soviet lines successfully reformed to spare Stalingrad the fate that has so long threatened it.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Reuter's (British) news agency today picked up a Moscow broadcast which quoted the Soviet army newspaper Red Star as admitting that German troops have reached the Volga north of Stalingrad. Reuter picked up a CBS broadcast from Moscow which said:

"Under cover of mass air raids the Germans again have launched attacks northwest of Stalingrad. They are reducing the city to rubble."

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The German radio, quoting a DNB dispatch, claimed today that "several districts" of Stalingrad have been captured after bitter street fighting. Reuters (British) news agency reported:

(Latest dispatches from Moscow said that the Russian defenders of Stalingrad have launched an offensive under orders from Josef Stalin and the Soviet high command.)

LONDON, Sept. 18.—A German General Fuerst has ordered that all Russian prisoners be shot after the Nazis have removed their clothing and shoes. Reuters (British) news agency reported today from Moscow.

Camp Fire Girls Meet In Baptist Church

The Chesckamay—Indian name meaning friendly—Camp Fire Girls of the First Baptist Church, held their second meeting, last evening in the Sunday School room of the church. Plans were completed for the children's nursery, which will be conducted in the Sunday School room each Saturday, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. There will be games and instructions for children of all ages.

The girls were privileged to hear Dr. Leigh Colvin, New York City, who spoke on "Liquor and War."

At the close of the Camp Fire meeting a social time was enjoyed. The next meeting will be Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. Every member is urged to be present.

ANDALUSIA P. T. A. TO MEET

The first meeting of the Andalusia P. T. A. will be held Monday, September 21 at 8 o'clock in the Andalusia school. Everyone is invited, old and new friends. Refreshments will be served.

HAIR-RAISING SACRIFICE

In the Magna Charta of Tonsorialia, the right of a barber to speak in a few thousand words on any subject is held to be inalienable. One would imagine that the bald idea of surrendering this right would make a barber's hair stand on end. It would seem too much like asking a ball player to give up his right arm especially if he happens to be a right-handed pitcher.

Nonetheless, the United Master Barbers of Illinois not only have entertained the idea but even have taken the unprecedented step with-out the slightest compulsion and solely of their own volition.

In solemn convention they pledged themselves to observe stern silence on the war until the victory is won that no idle word uttered in their shops would give aid and comfort to the enemies of their country. As an earnest of this pledge, they will display in their shops a sign, "No More Loose Talk," within easy range of their client's chairs.

Any attempt on the part of the customer undergoing a haircut or other major operation in an Illinois tonsorial surgery to violate the injunction will be dealt with summarily by the man behind the Yankee clippers. He will be greeted with chastising silence, or pelted with suggestions for a hot towel or other treatment calculated to run up the bill to figures approaching the daily cost of the war. This, the barbers believe, will be an effective way of discouraging out-of-bounds discussions on the war.

Lip service against their country is taboo among the Figaros of Illinois. Toupees off to the tonsorial patriots who are making the supreme sacrifice for their country!

Are labor goons the new economic royalists?

If a work-or-fight order is ever enforced, Washington will resemble a ghost city.

If boys of eighteen and nineteen are drafted, what will become of the National Youth Administration?

If LaGuardia, former OCD director, comes out for Dewey, his former pals will probably use both the jet and the spray system on him.

One South Dakota rancher sold 1,750 head of two-year-old steers for $175,000, and if that doesn't end the meat shortage in the East, he still has a few horses in reserve.

Russia's one-woman army who shot 309 Germans, now in Washington, is needed back at the Russian front.

The Great Game of Politics

was just one instance. There are numerous others. For example, the production of food and raw materials for clothing is under the Department of Agriculture. That department makes farm prices and huge sums Government supplies, while retail prices, distribution and rationing of food are under the OPA. Some Governmental food purchases are separately under the army and navy.

Oil control is dealt with by the Department of the Interior, the EPA, WFB, army, navy and seven other agencies. Four different and independent agencies deal with metals, but prices of metals and priorities are outside the field of the commodity directors. Three or four agencies deal with internal transportation. Three or four deal with labor administration. All the way through, the principle of the single head administration is avoided and the system which was evolved out of the last war, not only but in every other belligerent nation, ignored. Yet, that is the system which is in operation now in England, Canada, Russia and Germany. It is the only system by which the resources of a nation can be effectively mobilized for war. It is the only system that makes sense.

IN THE last war there were half a dozen major administrators—for war industries, for fuel, for food, for transportation, for ships. But, there were under these major administrators many minor administrators—for oil, for coal, for steel, for grain, for sugar, for labor, etc. In every country, including our own, boards, committees and commissions proved a failure, except when their function was advisory under an administrator. Last time every administrator had control of personnel, with power to hire and fire, the result being that the organization never reached absurdly swollen and unmanageable proportions. This is exactly what the Baruch committee's rubber administrator recommendation proposed—a minor administrator with complete power, under a major administrator.

WHAT IS terribly needed in Washington is a redistribution and consolidation of functions under major administrators, who would form, as they did last time, a National War Council, to sit daily with the President and co-operate with each other instead of conflicting. Experience has proved that this system, which President Wilson did not adopt until 1917, was effective. Experience has proved that the system under which we are now operating—if it can be called a system—is wasteful and ineffectual.

IT IS certain that several times the President has been upon the brink of adopting the tested system of major administrators, which has been steadily urged upon him for nearly two years. One thing that has stopped him has been the opposition of some of his New Deal aides who argued that this would let businessmen run the war. Another thing was that it would involve the elimination of a considerable number of existing agencies and the removal from the pay roll of a large number of men and women who now have jobs here. But, no more healthful thing than that possibly could happen. That would help tremendously even if he did not revise his "system." Not even a good system could function well so heavily overmanned. A reduction in personnel is a basic requirement.

president, Miss Cecelia Snyder; secretary, Miss Alice Gillespie; treasurer, Mrs. Alice Yorty.

There was a lively discussion as to whether the association should continue to hold monthly meetings in view of the rationing of gasoline and tires and the general conditions of the times. Many expressed their desires that the meetings be continued and that they thought that the meetings were for the benefit of the schools and that the monthly sessions should continue. It was so decided.

The newly-elected president, C. Burnley White, asked for the co-operation of the members and said that with all co-operating much for the benefit of the schools could be accomplished. There were refreshments and a social time.

Real Estate Board Discusses Problems

members of the Bucks County group will also attend.

At the War Conference of the real estate men, it is proposed to give consideration to such things as rent control, construction restriction and other pertinent subjects.

The Bucks County Board is particularly interested in a resolution to be brought before the conference which would permit the removal of old liens against properties which probably have been paid but never satisfied. Some of these date way back and no doubt exist through an oversight. It is believed that such liens can be removed without the cost of court action.
There was an open forum on some of the problems confronting Bucks County Real Estate Board members and these were discussed pro and con. The next meeting will be October 29.

Yankee Ingenuity Creates "Fire Buggy"

to be carried up several flights of stairs.

The idea behind the fire buggy is practical enough. In the wake of enemy bombing, sabotage or accident, fires may break out in remote parts of a building where it might take considerable time to assemble all the equipment that the buggy can muster on the spot in a few minutes.

Although few "home-made" fire bugs are identical, they all carry an assortment of fire extinguishers, including soda-acid, vaporizing liquid and pump tank types, plus lanterns, shovels, axes, crowbars and sand pails. Other common accessories are first-aid kits, stretchers, respirators, gas masks, steel helmets, hose lines, rope, asbestos gloves and goggles.

Some even carry bolt cutters, fuses, screw drivers, fire shields and whistles.

Fire buggies are not designed to deal with major fires, but to aid in putting out small ones, and play a delaying action on those that tend to spread. As London's experience has shown, the public fire department cannot always be relied upon during an air raid. Water mains may be broken, streets may be blocked with fallen debris and more serious fires elsewhere may demand first attention.

Most buggies are built for rescue work as well, and contain equipment for administering first-aid, breaking through obstructed passageways and effecting temporary repair jobs.

Wherever these units are found, a group of employees or civilian defense workers usually are trained to man them. Each person has a specific job cut out for him, and members of the squad are taught to assemble at the danger point while one of their members brings up the truck.

Although no regulations have been adopted by Underwriters' Laboratories to distinguish between "approved" and "not approved" types of fire buggies, such standards do govern fire extinguishers and many other kinds of equipment. Such approval is always indicated by the label of the Underwriters' Laboratories, which, in the case of extinguishers, is a small metal plate on the face of the extinguisher container. Whenever questions arise over the selection of accessories, the local fire chief can always be consulted.

Residents Must Back Up Defense Groups, Say Judges

Mrs. Ross was right in believing what District Chief of Emergency Police Roland Foden told her.

Foden himself testified that the night of the blackout he personally was outside the Ross roadside stand for a few minutes and that he could not see any lights at all in the Ross place.

In commenting on the case before sustaining the appeal, Judge Keller said:

"It is an unfortunate situation here and no one should be criticized severely. This is a new act and it is only natural that some mistakes are made. Accepting the statement of the air raid warden Mr. Kemp as true, that Mrs. Ross' lights were not properly covered on the night of the blackout, there is no evidence before this court that Mrs. Ross tried deliberately to violate the law. On the contrary, there is evidence that Mrs. Ross went to a superior to see what should be done with her lights, and she was advised and followed the instructions."

"We want the people of Warminster township and all other Bucks county districts, to co-operate with the Defense Act regulations, and unless they do our war effort will fail."

Likewise, District Attorney Edward G. Blester, who represented the Commonwealth in the case, assured both sides that there is no criticism of either side in this case, but he did appeal to both sides that co-operation will be needed immediately to make the civilian defense set-up in Warminster satisfactory.

Local Feed Company Approved Mixing Station

Bristol Flour, Feed and Grain Co., local feed distributors, have just been made an Approved Custom Mixing Station, according to an announcement just received by them from the Purina Mills, St. Louis, Missouri.

"We are fully qualified," they say, "to render the type of custom grinding and mixing service Purina Mills authorize in the announcement. We are completely equipped to grind the farmer's own grains and mix with them a balancer that the Purina Laboratories and Purina Experimental Farm have found to be practical and economical. By grinding the farmer's own grains and blending with them the proper Purina balancer, it is possible to increase the return a farmer gets from his grains when he markets them through his livestock in the form of pork, beef, eggs or milk."

Certain definite standards had to be met before they could become a Purina Custom Mixing Station, according to them.

"We have been provided with the Purina Rations Service which entitles us to the help of the Purina Laboratories and Farm on any special needs of our customers; in addition to having these Laboratories provide a complete set of rations made of corn, oats, wheat, barley, rye, sorghum grains and Purina balancers. As a Purina Custom Mixing Station we send samples of mixture as made by our grinder and mixer to the Purina Analytical Laboratory so they can check the efficiency and accuracy of our machinery."

"This arrangement," they say, "makes it possible for us to render an unusually high standard of accurate, uniform and profitable feed mixing service to the farmers in this vicinity—a service particularly adapted to local feeding conditions.

Bristol Flour, Feed and Grain Co. will continue to handle the complete Purina feeds as well as Purina concentrates.

Speaker Urges Adoption Of War Prohibition

has been defeated by a European power in a thousand years, on the night preceding the battle of Hastings in 1066, history tells us that the English spent the night in drunkenness and revelry. The same night the Normans spent the night in prayer. The Normans became the conquerors and the way of life of the English was tremendously changed. The Normans seized their property and turned the course of English history.

Tracing the relation of liquor in the wars of the United States, Dr. Colvin said, "In the Mexican War, General Winfield Scott, the military leader of that war, declared that fifty per cent of all he lost in his army, who were left behind in 'uncommenced graves,' were left there from the effects of liquor rather than from bullets of the enemy.

"In the Civil War, battle after battle was lost by drink. General O. O. Howard told of one battle when the commander was drinking heavily and gave orders the very opposite of which he would have given had his mind not been affected by drink. The result was a heavy loss of life and a dreadful defeat.

"Gideon Wells, in his famous diary, wrote following the disastrous defeat at Chancellorsville, that Senator Charles Sumner declared that 'whiskey did the work.'

"One factor in the defeat at Bull Run was that a drunken colonel rode over the field and countermanded the orders which sober officials had given.

"In a decade prior to the Spanish American War, the army had the Army Canteen, which was in reality the Army beer saloon. Being right in the camps and authorized by the army, the canteen was frequented by the soldiers and many drank heavily. When the men went to Florida and Cuba, and the yellow fever struck, drink had so undermined their resistance to disease, that thousands died, and although we lost only 500 in battle, we lost more than ten times that number from drink and disease. This led to a national sweeping demand for the abolition of the Army Canteen, and in 1899, Congress passed an anti-canteen law. The first law was nullified by a construction by an attorney general, who had been an attorney for breweries. The next congress in 1901 passed a second anti-canteen law, which is still the law of the land, it never having been repealed. This law directly prohibits beer, wine or any intoxicating beverage upon any premises used for military purposes. Notwithstanding that this law is still upon the statute books, the present administration of the army has authorized the beer canteen in practically every camp in the country.

"Many people, especially the parents of the soldiers, are much concerned over the reports that come of the large amount of drinking. The beer is so available in all the camps, that many who start drinking within the canteen go to the outside saloons and dives. The purpose of Senate bill No. 860, by the late Senator Sheppard, was to stop the sale of beer within the camps, and permit the establishing of dry zones around camps.

"The all-night beer parties after pay day are not only demoralizing, but are lessening the efficiency of the soldiers. There is not a University in the country which will allow the football players to drink while in training. How much more essential is it for soldiers in training for far more difficult tasks to abstain from drink?

"In World War I, in the draft law of 1917, it was provided that no liquor could be sold to any man in the uniform of the United States. We also had dry zones around the camps. Other prohibitory measures were employed and we sent to France the cleanest and finest army any nation ever had. The measures then went on to War Prohibition for the sake of the efficiency of not only the service men, but of the producers, and the industrial workers who were furnishing the supplies. For the sake of the efficiency of the nation and in order to achieve an early victory, similar measures are needed now, so that we need not be compelled to go through a long agony of 'blood, sweat and tears.'

"War Prohibition has become a patriotic military necessity for the sake of the efficiency and capacity of the nation in time of war."

School Lane and that he turned into Oden Avenue. "He slowed his car as he approached me until within about 200 feet when he stepped on it and passed me," said the witness. Dedrick further said that Hamilton ignored his whistle to stop. Dedrick estimated Hamilton's speed at 40 m. p. h.

Edward Effing said he saw Hamilton driving on School Lane near the driveway at the high school. "I blew my whistle first, and then called to him," was the testimony of the witness. But Hamilton continued to drive on, he stated.

The next witness was Edward Maloney who said that he saw Hamilton driving at Clover Lane and Oden Road. Saw the car backed and go down another road. The witness said he blew his whistle and then saw Hamilton stop. He also called to the motorist, told him to pull to the side of the road and told him that it was an air raid. The witness said that Hamilton told him that he lived "over here" and was out hunting for his dog. "How do you plead, asked Judge Lynn. 'Guilty or not guilty.' The reply was 'guilty.'"

Hamilton said that he thought he had to get pets in during a blackout. "Do you like your dog?" asked Judge Lynn.

"Yes," was Hamilton's answer. "Is he a good valuable dog?" was the next query of the justice.

"How much is that dog worth to you?" the defendant was asked.

"$50," was the answer.

"Well, that is just what it is going to cost you," said Judge Lynn. "These air raid wardens and emergency policemen go out to protect you and everybody else and they must be upheld."

Hamilton paid $28.35 at once and promised to pay the balance next week.

Doyle, caretaker at the Columbus Country Club, said that he had gone to bed late on the night of August 26th. He later heard a whistle and got up and turned the lights on, thinking that it was a blackout. Instead he learned the day following that he had turned the lights off at the end of the blackout instead of the beginning.

The witness against Doyle was Ralph P. Barclay who testified that the outside lights of the club were on and that he could not arouse anybody to turn them off. Doyle said that the lights were kept on to prevent the theft of tires from the automobiles of cottage tenants on the property.

Barclay said that the lights were still on when the all-clear signal was given.

"I don't want to be tough on anyone," said Justice Lynn. But the air raid wardens must be respected. Today we are living under changed conditions with the War Department in control."

Doyle said that he was only employed at the Club but Justice Lynn said that was no excuse and that he was the violator. Doyle said that he was sorry that it had happened and that he would see that air raid wardens are made familiar with the location of an available switch.

Women Voters' Institute To Be Held at Quakertown

Bucks County League of Women Voters will be host to members and non-members alike at the second of a series of state-wide institutes to be held at Quakertown on September 30. Mrs. Clarence A. G. Pease, president of the Quakertown League, announced. The institute is being held under auspices of the Quakertown League.

The first meeting of the series will be divided into two, and will be held simultaneously at Wayne and Media on Tuesday, September 29th. Delaware County League of Women Voters will conduct these sessions.

The Bucks County meetings will be held at Trainer's on Route 309 of the Bethlehem Pike. The afternoon session will be held from 2:30 to 5:30 with the dinner meeting following at 6:30 o'clock. Non-members have been invited to both sessions and the evening meeting also will be opened to men.

Dr. Harold F. Alderfer, professor of political science at the Pennsylvania State College, will be in charge of the afternoon session. His topic will be "Redesigning State and Local Government." At the dinner meeting Dr. Paul H. Wuehler, associate professor of economics at the Pennsylvania State College, will speak on "Problems of Pennsylvania State and Local Finance."

Mrs. Pease will preside at the dinner meeting.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Galley)
Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

Most compassionate God, we pray thy blessing upon all those who are suffering this day; whose pain is in their bodies through no fault of their own, but rather because of the circumstances which exist in the world today. Grant that they may be unfettered by rebellion against thy will, unsoiled by thought of themselves. Enable them rather to derive from the trial which they face the blessing which it can contain; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

Alfred Hitchcock, long recognized as the master builder of screen suspense, adds another impressive hit to his already extensive list of boxoffice winners with release of "Saboteur," which opened yesterday at the Grand Theatre.

Co-starring Priscilla Lane and Robert Cummings, who turn in the finest performances of their separate careers, "Saboteur" will probably go down in Hollywood annals not only as an outstanding picture, but for the vital part it will play in Uncle Sam's defense efforts.

BRISTOL THEATRE

"In Old California," a new frontier picture of epic proportions, bowed in at the Bristol Theatre yesterday and proved itself to be, in audience appeal, one of the foremost films of the current season.

John Wayne acquitted himself admirably in the leading role, bringing all the power and scope of the frontier west in his characterization of Tom Craig, enterprising Bostonian who journeys to Sacramento to become a pioneer pharmacist.

"Dumbo" also shows today.

RITZ THEATRE

Bob Hope, king of the comics, needs every gag he's got to get him out of trouble in his latest and fastest Paramount film, "My Favorite Blonde," the riotous spy chase opus that opened last night at the Ritz Theatre. Unquestionably the funniest film in the long line of Hope hits, the picture owes much of its hilarity to blonde and beautiful Madeleine Carroll, not to mention the part played by a penguin named Percy.

Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

SAVE TIME and write or phone to friendly Snellenburgs to send a "Camp Kit" or "Shipmate Kit" to your soldier or sailor friends. These compact, complete things—they measure 4x5 inches—cost $2.50 each. Listen to the tale of their contents! Toothbrush, razor, blades, soap, tooth powder, shaving powder, styptic pencil, mirror, comb, and nail file!

Something? These nice fold-up kits can be had in Army khaki or Navy blue. Displayed in the Men's Furnishing Dept., 1st fl. Buy double—one for a friendless guy. (Phone Enterprise 10160.)

EXQUISITELY PATTERNED in some Virginia-made china—"Warwick." The pattern of little bouquets tossed about on white grounds is suggestive of "Dresden" and will make the happiest sort of table. I was amazed that the price for china of this quality and in such good taste should be so low—$25 for a service for eight. Have you ever been in the Snellenburg China Department? Well, go. It has a magic touch as well as a practical slant. Know why? A woman "buys" for the department, and it does take a woman of good taste to select china and glassware. (3rd fl.)

"TOPS" STYLES—and that may be punning but it isn't funning, for some of the loveliest and most original hats in Philadelphia are to be found in the little Millinery Salon on Snellenburg's 2nd fl. The Salon prices cannot, of course, be labeled "cheap," but that they are amazingly reasonable is the testimony of every well-dressed woman who has the good fortune to discover the place. Just now the Salon is dominated by the magic new "1943" turbans in the jewel-toned velveteen and both the conservative and exaggerated betters of felt skirting in autumn and winter tones. Select while the exhibit is fresh and generously varied! $10 up.

WHAT A HELP! Nice soft paper linings for the baby's diapers are just about as important an innovation as the electric washing machine! And yet a lot of you mothers who believe yourselves progressive do not use 'em. Come on, give yourselves a break. Cut down on your washing time and have more playtime with the baby while it is a baby. You can get 250 paper diaper linings at Snellenburgs for a mere dollar. Infants' Dept., 2nd fl. Put the item on your shopping list!

Send the "boys" monthly big gifts, weekly little ones, letters daily! Faithfully, FAITH.

TEMPLE OF GOOD LUCK. That unusual Snellenburg Auditorium has the exclusive opportunity of exhibiting to Philadelphians, from Sept. 21st to Oct. 3rd, a 15 ft. Buddhist Temple of solid silver. It is known as "The Watch-Tower of Good Luck." One can meet, too, in the Auditorium, the little woman who helped to smuggle it out of Shanghai past the Japanese Army. The Temple is valued at a half million dollars. Admission price is 10c, which goes to United China Relief. You will see, also, the Three Thousand Years of Chinese Art, loaned by the Penna. University Museum, and the world-famous Chang collection of beautiful jade. By the way, only to gaze upon that Good Luck Temple is supposed to give one good luck, too! Come! (3rd fl.)

IF IT'S QUINS it doesn't matter—so far as layettes are concerned! At interested Snellenburgs you select one layette as usual. But if you have twins, triplets, quads or quins (whoa!), why, the progressive Maternity Department gallantly sends you extra "editions" of your first order, free. I call that handsome. Newest little garments now on display. They're fun to look at, sweet to buy, and most reasonably priced. Buy some "extras," too—many young war mothers need help. This scientific department has a graduate trained nurse to answer your questions. 2nd fl.

STUDENT SUITS which the "younger men" thoroughly approve are to be found in the Snellenburg Student Clothing Dept. on the 3rd fl. See, particularly, the $19.95 model. It is manfully tailored and is labeled for wool content. It is made in the new seasonal mixtures—brown, blue, and gray predominating. Sizes 17 to 22. Really an excellent value. See, too, the knicker suits, built for wear. Good, serviceable values. Sizes 9 to 15. Only $12.

REAL KITCHEN LIGHTING. Soft, clear "Fluorescent" light fixtures are just about becoming "necessities" for the modern woman's kitchen. At first these were obtainable only for shops and public places, but now a splendid two-tube kitchen fixture (all that is needed) can be had for only $8.95. This particular fixture is easy to clean. Fluorescent light is so easy on the eyes and it burns less current than a 75-watt bulb. You can attach it yourself. Snellenburg Lamp Dept., 3rd fl.

DOUBLE HEADER TO DECIDE PLAY-OFF IN YOUTH LEAGUE SERIES

A double-header scheduled for tomorrow afternoon on St. Ann's field will decide the contesting teams in the play-off for the Diamond Youth League. The play-off will get underway Sunday afternoon with one game being scheduled.

In the first tilt of tomorrow's twin bill, scheduled for one o'clock, the Croydon Y. M. A. will meet Third Ward and in the second game Voltz-Texaco Juniors clash with Franklin. In Sunday's game, scheduled for one o'clock, the winners of the first game will play the winners of the second tilt in the first of a three-game play-off series.

It is most likely that Bartholomew will swirl for Croydon against the Pikers who most likely will throw in their ace hurler, Len Simons. Franklin, champions of the regular season, will again pit Joe Sagolla against Voltz-Texaco who most likely will start Art Goheen, Goheen and Sagolla were the opposing hurlers as Franklin beat out last Sunday.

But the Franklin team did not have an easy time of it despite their hitting power. In the last frame, Voltz raised to score a run and had the bases loaded when a double play brought an end to the hostilities. Had that last ball got by Mayo, Voltz would have surely deadlocked the score and had a fine chance of winning the game.

Gielow Also Socks A Home Run With Bags Loaded

Winning its sixth straight game, the Bancroft-Hickey ten went into a deadlock for first place in the Bristol Softball League, conquering the Diamond team, 7-4, last night on Leedom's field. It was the third victory in as many nights for the Bancroft team over the Mill streeters.

The arm and bat of Paul Gielow had much to do with the triumph of the wheel-makers. He held the Diamond boys to five hits, four of which came in the fourth inning. With the bat, Gielow socked a home run with the bags loaded in the first inning.

The four-base hit helped the Bancroft team to pile up a 4-0 edge only to have Diamond shave the lead to 4-3 in the fourth. However, in the fifth the Bancroft boys scored a trio of markers on hits by A. Wolvin, Brown, Bergmann plus a walk to Hunter and a fielder's choice.

RED AND GRAY TEAMS OPEN AT B. H. S. TODAY

By Phil Corn
(Sports Editor, B. H. S. Rambler)
Today the sports enthusiasts of Bristol and the students of Bristol high school will get their initial glance at the Lower Bucks County and Bl-County Champions, when they clash with each other in the annual Red and Gray football tilt, in which the squad will be divided into a Red team and a Gray team.

The whole high school will be divided, half Red and the others Gray. This will be the same throughout the school year for intramurals. Also there will be the same number of Red cheerleaders as there will be Gray.

During intermissions between quarters and the half, the Bristol high school band, under the able hand of Charles Quigley, will serenade the spectators with music.

Admission is free and starting whistle will be at three o'clock sharp.

This year, more than ever, the boys of Coach Bartholomew need your help in putting across another champion eleven, which can only be done by coming and seeing the frays, and backing those fellows out on the grid-iron every home game.

There will be only one veteran returning to this year's starting Cardinal and Gray team, Paul Ruby, a little guy of just short of 200 pounds, who was about half of Coach "Lefty" Bartholomew's pigskin champs last year in the Morrisville fray. He will not start today because of an injury to his shoulder, but hopes to be in there for the first tilt, on September 25th, at Trenton Catholic.

Below is given the teams:
Red: Linemen—Berardis, E. Cor- disco, Caucci, Conklin, Dougherty, Go-

heen, Iannucci, Maag, Spadafore, Smoyer and Simons; backfield—Haj- duck, Johnson, J. Missanelli, Scan- cella, Evans, Elmer.

Gray: Linemen—Angelo, A. Cordis- co, Crossan, Brascia, Camilucci, J. Fallon, Massi, Mandio, Plebani and Riebel; backfield—J. Cordisco, E. Da- vis, Lomma, Miller, and Salerno.

10 Bristol Men At Fleetwings Also Helped To Build Ships

keeper of General Stores for the ship- builders during War I, and was one of the last men to leave there after the Armistice was signed and unfinished business was completed. Says Mr. Lefferts, "We were vitally interested in producing to help win the war then, but I know that men are really working for defense now to keep our democracy safe from the Nazis and Japs!"

William J. Lefferts

Working with Mr. Lefferts was Howard "Bucky" Roberts, stores clerk. "Bucky" does his part once again as a janitor on the Maintenance Crew at Plant Two.

Way back in 1907 Dan Kervick started to work where Fleetwings now stands. For Dan was a coremaker at the Standard Cast Iron & Pipe Foundry. The foundry was the brick building that is today the old section of Plant One. Dan remained there ten years, ascending the ladder from laborer to leader of a large group of men. In 1917, when the Merchant Fleet Shipyards took over the foundry in order to supply our nation with ships, Dan stayed on the same spot, and readily transferred to a job as caulker and chopper of ship surfaces. He was there until the ship-yard was abandoned in peacetime, then went off to other jobs at other places.

Now he's back on the same spot, helping to win the war—only it's a second world war now. And the 61-year-old father of 15 children, ten of whom are living, is leader of the Salvage and Reclamation bins.

Dan's memory goes back to the time he came to Bristol, in 1902, and he tells us, "I can remember when this ground was a peach and apple orchard, owned by the Landreth Seed Company. And out there where Radcliffe Street is was "Lover's Lane." For the boys and girls used to walk or ride their bikes between the cedar trees that lined the roadway at that time."

Another Fleetwinger who can boast of having worked for the old foundry and subsequently the shipyard is Eddie Ryan. Eddie, father of eight children, was a stores clerk during the last war, is a janitor at Plant One now.

1917 1942

Eddie Ryan

Asked about his children, Eddie proudly told us, "I have a son, a grandson, and two granddaughters who work here at Fleetwings."

Wilbur Albright started working at the foundry in 1916, then a year later signed up as a shipyard employee. An electrician at the shipyard during the first war, Wilbur is an electrician at Fleetwings, Plant Two, today. His history at the shipyard is unique, for he was on the maiden trials of 38 of the 42 ships launched where Plant One now stands. A painful experience of Wilbur's during the last war was the time he was "shot" with 2300 volts of electricity. A month in bed was all he needed before he was at war work again against the "Teinies."

James J. Coyle is a Timekeeper, Plant Two. But during his shipyard days he was a rivet-beater. And we can remember those cold days when he had to throw heated rivets to passers working high in the air on vital ships.

1917 1942

Joseph Bowker

Driving rivets during 1917-18 was the job of Joseph Bowker, who is now a fireman in the Boiler Room, Plant Two. Joe is the proud father of 11 children, two boys and nine girls.

The story of Charley Van Zant and Russell Force, War I shipyard workers, sounds like fiction. But it all happened, it's all true. Russell Force, assistant to Mr. Benedict, tool and dies, files and tool storage foreman, was the first man hired at the Fleetwings aircraft factory in the town of Bristol. After the world war, and his work as rigger at the shipyard was done, Russell found other jobs. But when Fleetwings moved from Long Island to Bucks County, in 1934, Russell was the first man who signed on the dotted line. And the second man was Charley Van Zant.

Charley was head of outside maintenance of the shipyard, was part of the townsite police force, and was also a sort of medical aide, who assisted the doctor, answered ambulance calls, etc. As he says, "I had three jobs at the shipyard." Today Charley is supervisor of the Jig Department, Plant Two.

PRODUCTION SOLDIERS OF TWO WARS
